Breakout Session Descriptions

I. Supporting Vulnerable Populations: Best Practices from the Field

Salon 6, Meeting Level 2

In this session, panelists will discuss innovations that have been undertaken on both coasts to increase housing stability and improve health outcomes for aging and/or medically vulnerable populations. Specific attention will be paid to replicable programs that engage the health care system and help residents to remain in their homes and communities as they age.

Moderator: Madeleine Shea, PhD, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services

Panelists: Merten Bangemann-Johnson, Rural Edge
Val Agostino, Mercy Housing

II. Building Healthier Communities through Innovative Partnerships and Investments

Independence Salon A/B/C, Meeting Level 4

Panelists will highlight community-based health and wellness initiatives, addressing a range of topics including healthy food access, fitness opportunities, youth violence prevention, peer education, and access to medical care. Also discussed are innovative funding streams to help support this work.

Moderator: Jasmine Hall Ratliff, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation

Panelists: Jeanne Pinado, Madison Park Development Corporation
Patricia Smith, The Reinvestment Fund
Amy Gillman, Local Initiatives Support Corporation

III. Emerging Policies and Models to Promote Healthy Housing

Independence Salon D, Meeting Level 4

Panelists will discuss local, state and national innovations designed to enhance the health of residents and community members. Examples will include new healthy housing standards; holistic housing interventions designed to reduce the burden of asthma; and health impact assessments, among others. A particular focus will be placed upon emerging strategies to build new partnerships with multiple health care and housing entities.

Moderator: Yianice Hernandez, Enterprise Community Partners

Panelists: Jonathan Wilson, National Center for Healthy Housing
Ruth Ann Norton, Green and Healthy Homes Initiative
Charise Fong, East Bay Asian Local Development Corporation

IV. Case Study: How Health Care and Housing Organizations are Collaborating to Improve Community Health in Texas

Independence Salon E, Meeting Level 4

Panelists will describe a working collaborative in Texas featuring a non-traditional partnership between a health insurance company and a community development corporation. By providing multiple perspectives on one initiative, this panel will provide insight into both the challenges and the opportunities in aligning the priorities of the health and housing sectors.

Moderator: Rob Grossinger, Enterprise Community Partners

Panelists: Kim A. Nettleton, United HealthCare Community and State
Julian Huerta, Foundation Communities
Peggy Bailey, Corporation for Supportive Housing
